

Joana Salazar Noguera is an associate professor at the University of the Balearic Islands (UIB) in Palma de Mallorca, Spain. She holds a PH Doctoral Thesis on English Phylology. She has participated in several European research groups and has created educative websites to promote multicultural understanding. She has also taught at secondary education for eleven years and has published on the adequacy of EFL (English as a Foreign Language) methodologies in the Spanish educative context. At present, she is the president of the Association of Teacher Education in Europe (ATEE) and she coordinates the ATEE Research Development Community on Secondary Teacher Education. She also coordinates the MA in Modern Languages and Literatures at the University of the Balearic Islands. Her most recent publications are a co-edited book entitled 'Content-based learning in multilingual educational environments' (Juan-Garau, M. and Salazar-Noguera, J. Eds.), Springer in press, and a book chapter entitled 'English L2 learners' léxico-grammatical and motivational development at home and abroad' in Pérez-Vidal (Ed.) Language Acquisition in Study Abroad and Formal Instruction Contexts, John Benjamins 2014.